Senate Agrees

WASHINGTON—A Senate agreement on the administration immigration bill buoyed GOP leadership hopes today for an adjournment of Congress on July 31. The immigration measure, which provides for the admission of 209,000 Iron Curtain refugees during the next three years, is expected to be called up Monday and passed quickly.

AG College Pruned

HARRISBURG—Two appropriation measures for the National Agricultural College at Doylestown today carried approval of both houses and were sent to Gov. John S. Fine for approval.

Both measures won approval of the house Friday by a 205-1 vote. One bill for general maintenance of the college was slashed by the Senate appropriations committee from $170,000 to $68,200.

Another measure earmarked for the study of poultry diseases at the college was pruned from $36,000 to $25,000.

The two bills were sponsored by Senator Edward B. Watson — R — Bucks.

Peace Windup

PANMUNJOM — Liaison officers worked from morning to evening today in a climatic drive to finish the last few arrangements for the actual signing of the Korean armistice which may come tomorrow or Monday. The United Nations and Communist colonels held five sessions in Panmunjom and then recessed without setting a time for resumption of their talks. This aroused speculation that the liaison representatives may have completed the final preparations for the signing of the armistice over the continued opposition of South Korea.

'Lovely But Weak,' Newtown Husband Tells Court of Wife

DOYLESTOWN, July 25 — "My wife is a lovely girl but she is weak-minded," Samuel W. Chappelle, 37, 142 Congress st., Newtown, told Judge Edward G. Biester yesterday in Quarter Sessions court.

Mrs. Eleanor Chappelle, wife of the defendant, and prosecutrix in the case, testified her husband tried to kill her and that he threatened to kill her while they were drinking July 8 in their Newtown home.

"I gave my cousin a drink after my husband told me not to," said the attractive witness. "My husband gets very jealous and peculiar about things like that."

Judge Biester sentenced Chappelle to pay the costs of prosecution, pay a $10 fine and file a $500 bond to keep the peace on a surety of the peace charge to which he pleaded guilty.

For violating his parole Chappelle was re-committed to the Bucks County Prison to serve the balance of his term. Chappelle was sentenced April 27 to serve not less than two months nor more than 23 when he pleaded guilty to assault and battery and aggravated assault and battery which consisted of stabbing Willie Hutchings with an ice pick.

Chappelle, who was paroled June 26, was granted a parole on condition that he absolutely abstain from drinking intoxicants.

Chappelle and Hutchings both came to court drunk and were committed to jail for contempt of court when the trial came up in the May term of criminal court in which Chappelle pleaded guilty to stabbing Hutchings during a Thanksgiving Day dinner and brawl in November, 1952.

Police Widen Hunt For Mother of Abandoned Baby

Search Enters Third Day; Ill Baby Recovers

The search for Mrs. Gwendolyn Martin, 35-year-old mother of an eight-month-old girl left at a Bristol Terrace neighbor's home, entered its third day today with no clues reported on her whereabouts. Mrs. Martin has been missing since July 15.

The baby was left at the home of Mrs. Gantz, 1009 Court G, Terrace II, who gave the Courier the following account:

"I knew the woman fairly well, having been to her house a few times (when she lived in the Terrace) and she had been over to see me more than once. She came to me a week ago Sunday (July 12) and told me she and her husband were separated. She asked then would I take care of the baby while she looked for a job. I gave my consent, and she went out. That was at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon."

"She got back at 8 that night and stayed until 12:15, when she said she would have to leave to find a place to stay. I told her she could stay here, and she did, on Sunday Monday and Tuesday nights. She went out Tuesday morning to make a telephone call to a local factory looking for work, and said she hadn't gotten a job as yet."

"Wednesday morning she left to make another call, and I haven't seen her since. Monday (July 20) I got a message from a neighbor who has a telephone. My neighbor told me that Mrs. Martin had called, saying, 'This is Gwen. Tell Mrs. Gantz I won't be home.' I didn't know where she had gone or where she called from, so just decided to take care of the baby and let it go at that."

Mrs. Gantz said that it was after the child began running a fever Thursday that she became alarmed, and went to the Township police, hoping that they could locate its mother.

Police took the child, Gretchen Martin, to Bristol General Hospital where she was treated and released in the custody of Mrs. Gantz.

They then notified Mrs. Kathryn C. Stead, county juvenile officer in charge of dependent neglected children. Mrs. Stead arrived at the Gantz home yesterday, got the details in the case, and said she would "send someone to get the child on Monday," according to Mrs. Gantz.

"I was told that if Mrs. Martin was to come here over the weekend, I was to notify police," said Mrs. Gantz.

"Personally, I would like to keep

11 Accidents Reported in Area Within 48 Hours

Lower Bucks county police have reported a total of eleven accidents within the last 48 hours. These accidents were reported by Bristol borough, Bristol township, Bensalem township, Middletown township, and Falls township police.

Middletown township Police Chief H. C. Shook reported two accidents in which both cars were demolished.

William J. McBride, 1404 Erwin street, Philadelphia, was going west on Route 281 Spur, which is near the township water works, when he crashed into the guard rail, Shook said.

McBride, a Philadelphia fireman, was not injured, but was taken before Justice of the Peace F. Eugene Sergeant. According to Shook, he was charged with reckless driving and disorderly conduct and fined a total of $49.

Route 1, two miles from Penned, was the scene of the second accident when Joseph A. Foster, 1617 St. Mark's Square, Philadelphia, drove into the neon motel sign in front of the Miller Motel.

According to the police chief, Foster was taken to Nazareth Hospital with a broken nose and abrasions of the face and neck. As soon as he is released from the hospital,

County's First Polio Outbreak Hits Area Boy

What may be Bucks County's first case of polio has been reported in Bristol township at the home of James Thompson, 49 Schumacher drive.

The Thompson's son, James, 13, was admitted to Easton Hospital last Saturday with a very mild case, Dr. Johnston said, and is now in an isolation ward.

James complained of headaches last Thursday after he returned from swimming. Dr. George Hood was called in and he sent the boy to Abington Hospital. From there James was transferred to Easton.

The family has been quarantined since July 20, and they will be for the next week. Their other son, Gregory, 6, has been inoculated with the new gamma globulin anti-polio drug. Both of the Thompsons are employed at Kaiser Metal.

Middletown Twp. Supervisors Lash Levitt, Sons Suit

Middletown twp. supervisors today answered to an equity suit by Levitt & Sons, Inc., by maintaining the building firm went to the wrong court at the wrong time to appeal the road ordinance of August 25, 1952.

In a statement of preliminary objections to Levitt's complaint, filed in Common Pleas Court by Township Solicitor Lawrence A. Monroe, the supervisors said Levitt's appeal of the township road specifications should have been filed in Quarter Sessions Court within 30 days after the ordinance was enacted.

Levitt & Sons, through its law firm of Dilworth, Paxson, Kalish and Green and attorney John H. Wood, Jr., filed a bill in equity June 25, asking Common Pleas Court to enjoin Middletown twp. from enforcing the road regulations. The builder said the street specifications were "arbitrary" and "unconstitutional" and "designed for heavy traffic."

Defendants Named

Defendants in the court action are Supervisors J. Russell Newbold, Raymond H. Secules and Sven Nielsen.

The ordinance requires Levittown streets in the township to be 32 feet wide with upright curbs. They must be constructed of a six-inch crushed stone base with 2½ inches of blacktop or of concrete eight inches thick.

In their objection to Levitt's complaint, the supervisors said the builder had knowledge of the ordinance before its passage, being owners of 1,495 acres in the township at the time.

Not Specific

The defendants stated further that "certain provisions" in Levitt's bill of equity criticize the road ordinance in general terms without stating specifically what the criticisms are.

The supervisors asked the court to make Levitt & Sons state specifically its criticisms.

The supervisors' statement describes as "purely conjectural" a

Funeral Arranged For Mrs. Millman

EDDINGTON, July 25 — A resident here for 12 years, Mrs. Elizabeth P. Millman, 76, died at her home, Olga and Maple avenues, yesterday. She was the wife of Harry C. Millman. Mrs. Millman, a native of New York, N. Y., had been in ill health for four years.

The deceased was a member of Clinton Avenue Baptist Church, Trenton, N. J.

The Rev. N. Herbert Caley, of St. James P.E. Church, Langhorne, will conduct service at the Faust funeral home, Hulmeville, Monday at two p. m. Burial is to be made in Oakland Cemetery, Philadelphia. Friends may call Sunday evening.

Historic Church Service Sunday

The Presbyterian Church, on Sycamore street, Newtown once again will open its historic doors for a service tomorrow at 11 a. m. This church, erected in 1869, is now standing on the site where George Washington kept his Hessian prisoners following the Battle of Trenton in 1776.

Services in the building which was used for 65 years will be conducted by the Rev. John E. Mertz, D.D., and Walton S. Burris, Jr., who will be in charge of the music. Early worship and church school will be held in the new structure, Washington avenue and Chancellor street.

Neighbor Banks To Join Bucks In Merger Battle

Montgomery, Northampton To Aid Fight

Bankers of Montgomery and Northampton Counties have promised to support the Bucks County Bankers Association in stopping the spread of large city banks into suburban areas through "mergers" and "branches," Robert B. Hance, Jr., president of the Association said today.

The Bankers Associations of those two counties recently indicated their support, he said. In Delaware and Chester Counties, the bankers associations will meet next week to decide on joining the drive.

Steps to be taken will be decided next week, and a meeting of the executive committees of the Bankers Associations.

The Bucks County Association decided action Thursday night at a meeting at which 16 banks and trust companies were represented. They fear that Philadelphia banks will try to "gobble up" small local banks as new industrial wealth pours into Lower Bucks County.

"We don't object to local banks opening branches in the areas they serve," Hance said, "but we think it is unhealthy for a large city bank to open branches or merge with local banks in the county."

"It could lead to one large bank operating exclusively in the whole area," the banker said. "There would be no competition."

If a man was turned down for a loan at one county bank he could not get it at any other because of "the home office dictating policy," Hance said.

Hance would not list the steps the bankers association might take, but it was learned that area bankers two years ago united in protesting to the U. S. National Bank Controllers office when it was rumored that the Girard Trust Co. was attempting to buy or merge with the Morrisville Bank. The jointure never went through.

Bankers hear of merger plans in conversations with colleagues, Hance said, and are consulted by the National Bank Controllers Office.

"We were consulted by the National Bank Department when the Peoples National Bank & Trust Co., of Langhorne applied to open a branch in Penned," he said. "We had no objection."

Plans for Philadelphia National Bank to take possession of the Conshohocken National Bank by purchasing stock recently came to light. According to latest reports, the move has been approved by directors of the two banks, but not by the shareholders.

Levittown's Latest Church To Break Ground

Levittown's first Presbyterian church, Pilgrim Presbyterian, will hold ground-breaking ceremonies tomorrow at 3 p. m., according to the Rev. Robert J. Thomson, pastor.

This will be the first of three units to be constructed on the Green lane and Emille road site. Cost is estimated at $75,000. Members of neighboring churches and officials of the Philadelphia Presbytery will participate in the ceremonies.

The afternoon's main address will be delivered by representatives of churches who have been supporting the Pilgrim Church through the National Building Funds Campaign of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A.

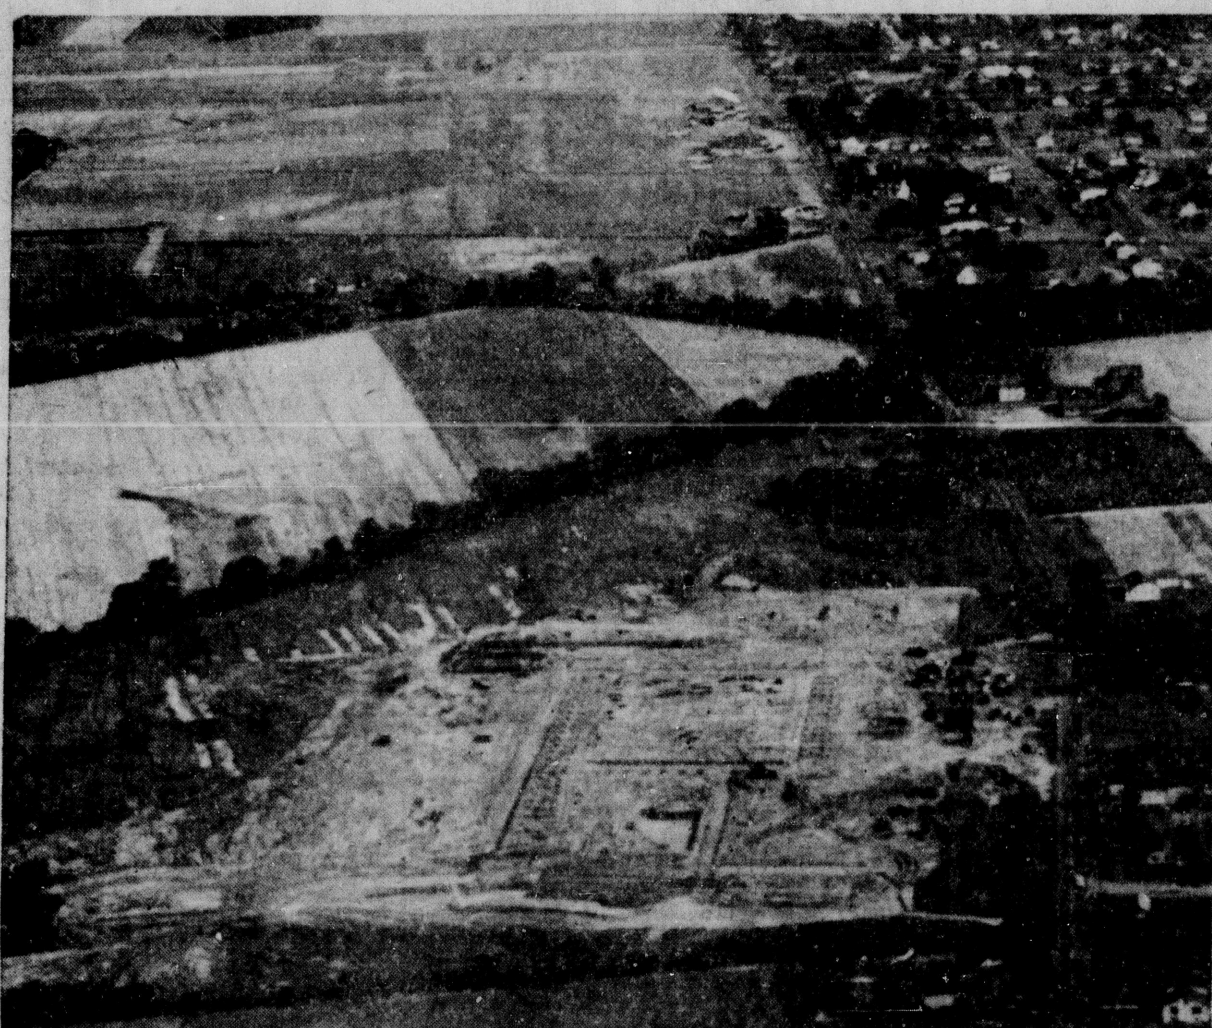

Everyone present is asked to provide a shovel and help with the ground-breaking. The building will be completed, it is hoped, early in 1954.

Little Effect Seen Here From New Twp. Planning Bill

State house bill 965, which permits second class townships to have planning commissions and engage actively in planning programs, probably will have little effect in Lower Bucks County.

Clifford D. Watson, chairman of the Falls Township Supervisors, said yesterday he hadn't seen the actual bill yet, "having only received a bulletin issued by the State."

Watson said he would have to study the bill before making recommendations.

The law allows second class townships (two of which are in the lower end of the county) to set up five-man boards to work in conjunction with the County Planning Commission.

Under the act, if a commission were appointed, it would have the power to hire technical help and work with other municipalities on mutual planning problems.

William White, chairman of the board of supervisors for Bensalem Township, who was defeated in the primary election, said he "may still set up a commission while in office," but that he hadn't gotten the complete details of the bill yet.

White said he was "instrumental" in getting the bill passed by the state in the first place, but wasn't sure of his plans at this date.

Bristol Hospital Issues Nurse Call

The Bristol General Hospital has issued an urgent call for registered, practical and undergraduate nurses.

Roger Harmon, administrator, said the hospital has been "humming with activity" recently, and the summer vacation season for nurses has reduced the hospital's staff.

"Patients are still receiving adequate care," said Harmon, "but some nurses are working 12 hours a day to keep up with the work."

Harmon said the nursery now has eight babies, and that eight more are expected "at any time."

"We have had five operations within the past three days," he said.

Nurses meeting qualifications for work in the 50-bed hospital may reach Harmon at Bristol 8-2313.

CARNIVAL CLOSES TONIGHT

Tullytown Fire company carnival will conclude this week's activities with tonight's performance, it was announced today. The carnival will resume for three nights beginning Thursday at the rear of the fire house.

Hospital Gets New Phones

A complete modern inter-communications system has been installed in the Bristol General Hospital, according to Roger Harmon, director.

Harmon said today the system will enable any part of the 50-bed hospital to be in contact with the rest of the building through the installation of the system.

Also recently installed at the hospital was an air conditioning unit for the nursery, which will keep the room's temperature evenly controlled, and a recessator of the latest type for the delivery room.

No Relief Seen As Manhattan Strike Continues

No relief was seen this morning in a strike of 283 employees of the Manhattan Soap Co., despite a day-long conference of company and union representatives in Philadelphia yesterday before a federal conciliator.

Meeting in the Weidner Building yesterday before Leo O'Shea of the Mediation and Conciliation Service, U. S. Department of Labor, were Harold N. Crocker, plant manager, J. R. Hutt, an executive of the company, Frank J. Field, president of Local 373, United Chemical Workers, CIO and his negotiating committee. They met from 10:30 a. m. to 6 p. m.

"We were before the Mediation and Conciliation board all day long," Crocker said. "We feel that we are reaching a settlement."

Asked his impression of the conference, Field said, "Nothing came of it. We got no answer at all to our demands."

The Manhattan employees went on strike at 12:01 Thursday, demanding hourly pay increases of five cents for women and eight cents for men, on a one-year contract, with a $2 daily increase in hospitalization benefits. Company offers have been rejected by the union.

On the Local 373 negotiating committee are Fred Vandergrift, Edward Mulligan, Howard Tomlinson, Edgar Finney and Joseph Reardon.

DOYLESTOWN, July 25 — Mrs. Lillian M. Mitman, 38, Croydon, R. D. 1, the mother of a son in the service and a 19-year-old daughter, who pleaded guilty to drunken driving before Judge Edward G. Biester in Quarter Sessions Court here yesterday, was fined $200 and directed to pay the costs of prosecution.

Mrs. Mitman, who was arrested June 4 by two Bristol patrolmen, Matthew Bragg and William Bolton, told Judge Biester she didn't know why she told the officers she had imbibed 12 beers.

"Well, did you have 12 beers?" Judge Biester asked Mrs. Mitman. "I don't know what ever made me say that I had 12 beers. I don't remember how many I had. I know it will never, never happen again."

Mrs. Mitman, who is estranged from her husband, testified she was drinking in a Buckley street bar in Bristol. She drove her car through a stop-sign at Bath and Otter streets after attracting the attention of the officers by "weaving" down Bath street.

A Bristol General Hospital physician, who examined her, pronounced her unfit to drive a car.

Mrs. Mitman told Judge Biester that being deprived of her operator's license and the right to drive a car would be a real hardship on her and the woman with whom she lives because there is no water in the house and she hauls water, groceries and other things in the car. "I am the only one who can drive the car," said Mrs. Mitman.

"You should have thought of that when you were drinking," said the court. She was arrested about 3:45 in the morning.

"Weren't you out a little late?" Judge Biester asked.

"Yes, I was and it will not happen again," she said.

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, July 25—Pvt. Samuel F. Lavenberg, son of Mrs. W. Lavenberg, 917 Oak avenue, Croydon, Pa., has been graduated from the Ammunition Supply Specialist School of the Ordnance Replacement Training Center here.

His graduation qualifies Lavenberg to command an ammunition squad or a detail of ammunition handlers engaged in storing ammunition or explosives.

Rep. King to Fete Committee at Summer Home

Bucks County is host today to a distinguished group of farm-minded Congressmen who are starting a nationwide survey of American agricultural problems.

The Congressional Committee on Agriculture will hold the first formal hearing of its countryside tour at 3:30 p. m. at Pennsbury Inn, Morrisville, on the subject of "Problems of Eastern Vegetable Growers."

Congressman Karl C. King, of Morrisville, nationally known as a large-scale vegetable producer and the Bucks-Lehigh County Representative at Washington, is himself a member of the House Agricultural committee and is entertaining his colleagues and their associates as a feature of the tour.

Preliminary to the hearing, the Congressional party left Washington by bus this morning and is spending much of the day in a tour of field operations, freezing plants, etc., in New Jersey.

Late this afternoon the entire group will be guests of Congressman King at his picturesque cabin on Manor Lake, with water sports at their disposal. Tomorrow the party will tour the King Farms, the new U. S. Steel plant and the reconstructed Manor of William Penn.

Members Listed — A partial list of the Congressmen coming to Bucks County today is as follows:

August H. Anderson, Minnesota; William S. Hill, Colorado; Charles P. Hooven, Iowa; Ralph Harvey, Indiana; Harold O. Love, South Dakota; Page Belcher, Oklahoma; Clifford G. McIntire, New York; Robert D. Harrison, Nebraska; William C. Wampler, Virginia; W. R. Poage, Texas; George M. Grant, Alabama; E. C. Gathings, Arkansas; Carl Albert, Oklahoma; Paul C. Jones, Missouri.

In addition also attending will be: Walter Mumma, Alvin R. Bush, Leon Gavin and James VanZant, all Republicans, Pa.; Fred Marshall, of Minn.; and Charles R. Howell, N. J.

Itinerary Follows — The official itinerary of the trip follows:

Bill to Limit School Building Marked For Death Today

HARRISBURG, July 25 — (INS) — A bill designed to put a limit on a new construction by local school districts has been marked today for a death blow in the General Assembly.

The Senate has added amendments which the House is not expected to accept and the bill is due to die in a conference committee.

The measure is now up for final passage in the Senate.

The bill would require a referendum before a school board could contract with local or state building authorities for new facilities to cost more than five per cent of the market value of taxable real

Middletown Twp. Supervisors Lash Levitt, Sons Suit

Middletown twp. supervisors today answered to an equity suit by Levitt & Sons, Inc., by maintaining the building firm went to the wrong court at the wrong time to appeal the road ordinance of August 25, 1952.

In a statement of preliminary objections to Levitt's complaint, filed in Common Pleas Court by Township Solicitor Lawrence A. Monroe, the supervisors said Levitt's appeal of the township road specifications should have been filed in Quarter Sessions Court within 30 days after the ordinance was enacted.

Levitt & Sons, through its law firm of Dilworth, Paxson, Kalish and Green and attorney John H. Wood, Jr., filed a bill in equity June 25, asking Common Pleas Court to enjoin Middletown twp. from enforcing the road regulations. The builder said the street specifications were "arbitrary" and "unconstitutional" and "designed for heavy traffic."

Defendants in the court action are Supervisors J. Russell Newbold, Raymond H. Secules and Sven Nielsen.

The ordinance requires Levittown streets in the township to be 32 feet wide with upright curbs. They must be constructed of a six-inch crushed stone base with 2½ inches of blacktop or of concrete eight inches thick.

In their objection to Levitt's complaint, the supervisors said the builder had knowledge of the ordinance before its passage, being owners of 1,495 acres in the township at the time.

Not Specific The defendants stated further that "certain provisions" in Levitt's bill of equity criticize the road ordinance in general terms without stating specifically what the criticisms are.

The supervisors asked the court to make Levitt & Sons state specifically its criticisms.

The supervisors' statement describes as "purely conjectural" a Continued on Page Three

Neighbor Banks To Join Bucks In Merger Battle

Montgomery, Northampton To Aid Fight

Bankers of Montgomery and Northampton Counties have promised to support the Bucks County Bankers Association in stopping the spread of large city banks into suburban areas through "mergers" and "branches," Robert B. Hance, Jr., president of the Association said today.

The Bankers Associations of those two counties recently indicated their support, he said. In Delaware and Chester Counties, the bankers associations will meet next week to decide on joining the drive.

Steps to be taken will be decided next week, and a meeting of the executive committees of the Bankers Associations.

The Bucks County Association decided action Thursday night at a meeting at which 16 banks and trust companies were represented. They fear that Philadelphia banks will try to "gobble up" small local banks as new industrial wealth pours into Lower Bucks County.

"We don't object to local banks opening branches in the areas they serve," Hance said, "but we think it is unhealthy for a large city bank to open branches or merge with local banks in the county."

"It could lead to one large bank operating exclusively in the whole area," the banker said. "There would be no competition."

If a man was turned down for a loan at one county bank he could not get it at any other because of "the home office dictating policy," Hance said.

Hance would not list the steps the bankers association might take, but it was learned that area bankers two years ago united in protesting to the U. S. National Bank Controllers office when it was rumored that the Girard Trust Co. was attempting to buy or merge with the Morrisville Bank. The jointure never went through.

Bankers hear of merger plans in conversations with colleagues, Hance said, and are consulted by the National Bank Controllers Office.

"We were consulted by the National Bank Department when the Peoples National Bank & Trust Co., of Langhorne applied to open a branch in Pennel," he said. "We had no objection."

Plans for Philadelphia National Bank to take possession of the Conshohocken National Bank by purchasing stock recently came to light. According to latest reports, the move has been approved by directors of the two banks, but not by the shareholders.

Under the act, if a commission were appointed, it would have the power to hire technical help and work with other municipalities on mutual planning problems.

William White, chairman of the board of supervisors for Bensalem Township, who was defeated in the primary election, said he "may still set up a commission while in office," but that he hadn't gotten the complete details of the bill yet.

White said he was "instrumental" in getting the bill passed by the state in the first place, but wasn't sure of his plans at this date.

Levittown's Latest Church To Break Ground

Levittown's first Presbyterian church, Pilgrim Presbyterian, will hold ground-breaking ceremonies tomorrow at 3 p. m., according to the Rev. Robert J. Thomson, pastor.

This will be the first of three units to be constructed on the Green lane and Emille road site. Cost is estimated at $75,000. Members of neighboring churches and officials of the Philadelphia Presbytery will participate in the ceremonies.

The afternoon's main address will be delivered by representatives of churches who have been supporting the Pilgrim Church through the National Building Funds Campaign of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A.

Everyone present is asked to provide a shovel and help with the ground-breaking. The building will be completed, it is hoped, early in 1954.

Little Effect Seen Here From New Twp. Planning Bill

State house bill 965, which permits second class townships to have planning commissions and engage actively in planning programs, probably will have little effect in Lower Bucks County.

Clifford D. Watson, chairman of the Falls Township Supervisors, said yesterday he hadn't seen the actual bill yet, "having only received a bulletin issued by the State."

Watson said he would have to study the bill before making recommendations.

The law allows second class townships (two of which are in the lower end of the county) to set up five-man boards to work in conjunction with the County Planning Commission.

Under the act, if a commission were appointed, it would have the power to hire technical help and work with other municipalities on mutual planning problems.

William White, chairman of the board of supervisors for Bensalem Township, who was defeated in the primary election, said he "may still set up a commission while in office," but that he hadn't gotten the complete details of the bill yet.

Bristol Hospital Issues Nurse Call

The Bristol General Hospital has issued an urgent call for registered, practical and undergraduate nurses.

Roger Harmon, administrator, said the hospital has been "humming with activity" recently, and the summer vacation season for nurses has reduced the hospital's staff.

"Patients are still receiving adequate care," said Harmon, "but some nurses are working 12 hours a day to keep up with the work."

Harmon said the nursery now has eight babies, and that eight more are expected "at any time."

"We have had five operations within the past three days," he said.

Nurses meeting qualifications for work in the 50-bed hospital may reach Harmon at Bristol 8-2313.

Hospital Gets New Phones

A complete modern intercommunications system has been installed in the Bristol General Hospital, according to Roger Harmon, director.

Harmon said today the system will enable any part of the 50-bed hospital to be in contact with the rest of the building through the installation of the system.

Also recently installed at the hospital was an air conditioning unit for the nursery, which will keep the room's temperature evenly controlled, and a recessed light of the latest type for the delivery room.

No Relief Seen As Manhattan Strike Continues

No relief was seen this morning in a strike of 283 employees of the Manhattan Soap Co., despite a day-long conference of company and union representatives in Philadelphia yesterday before a federal conciliator.

Meeting in the Weidner Building yesterday before Leo O'Shea of the Mediation and Conciliation Service, U. S. Department of Labor, were Harold N. Crocker, plant manager, J. R. Hutt, an executive of the company, Frank J. Field, president of Local 373, United Chemical Workers, CIO and his negotiating committee. They met from 10:30 a. m. to 6 p. m.

"We were before the Mediation and Conciliation board all day long," Crocker said. "We feel that we are reaching a settlement."

Asked his impression of the conference, Field said, "Nothing came of it. We got no answer at all to our demands."

The Manhattan employees went on strike at 12:01 Thursday, demanding hourly pay increases of five cents for women and eight cents for men, on a one-year contract, with a $2 daily increase in hospitalization benefits. Company offers have been rejected by the union.

On the Local 373 negotiating committee are Fred Vandergrift, Edward Mulligan, Howard Tomlinson, Edgar Finney and Joseph Reardon.

Bill to Limit School Building Marked For Death Today

HARRISBURG, July 25 — (INS) — A bill designed to put a limit on a new construction by local school districts has been marked today for a death blow in the General Assembly.

The Senate has added amendments which the House is not expected to accept and the bill is due to die in a conference committee.

The measure is now up for final passage in the Senate.

The bill would require a referendum before a school board could contract with local or state building authorities for new facilities to cost more than five per cent of the market value of taxable real

Shurr, who was sentenced to pay a $200 fine and the costs of prosecution, was asked by Judge Biester whether he didn't have a coat and whether he didn't know he was coming to court to plead guilty.

"I was notified while on the job at the Fairless Works," said Shurr, the father of two small children, aged three and five.

"You have a coat, don't you?" Judge Biester asked. "Yes, but I didn't think it was necessary to wear it."

"Men attending court are getting more and more careless," said the Court. "I am all in sympathy with casual, or informal dress during the summer but you knew that you had to appear in court today to answer a criminal charge and you are hardly appropriately dressed without a coat."

Shurr, who said he has been living in Bucks county less than two years, apologized for his appearance. He was arrested July 11, in Fallsington, after his car struck an automobile driven by Hilda C. Nolf. The woman's car was damaged to the extent of $50.

Falls Township Patrolman William J. McCue arrested the defendant at 4:50 in the morning. A Levittown doctor pronounced Shurr unfit to drive a car.

Shurr declined to give the number of drinks he had. "I am not an habitual drinker," he testified.

he will be issued a summons, Shook said, charging him with reckless driving.

Two accidents were reported by the Bristol township police Thursday. The first occurred on Route 13, and the second at the intersection of Routes 413 and 13.

Herbert Hooper, 28, of 16 Stonybrook drive, Levittown, was traveling north on Route 13 at 5 p. m. when his car collided, police said, with one going south driven by George D. Herrgott, 37, Avenue A and Pine street, Newportville.

According to police, Hooper had cuts over his eyes which required stitches and brush burns on his arms and legs. He was taken in a patrol car to Bristol General Hospital.

The Bucks County Rescue Squad which took Herrgott to Mercer Hospital, Trenton, reported he suffered fractured ribs, lacerations of the left knee, bruises of the stomach, and possible fractures of the right thigh.

Officers Harry Bowers and H. C. Shaw investigated the accident.

The second accident involved Robert Coles, 1120 Beaver street, Bristol, a parked car owned by Joseph C. Giffre, 686 Second avenue, Bristol, and Mrs. Winfred A. Roberts, Buttonwood avenue and Bristol pike, Andalusia.

Police said Coles, driving a car owned by his wife, Agnes F., was going west on Route 13, when Mrs. Roberts, traveling northeast on 13 began to make a left turn onto Route 413.

The two cars collided and also hit Giffre's, which was parked on Route 413 at the intersection. H. C. Shaw, the investigating officer, reported no one was injured.

Some Rules to Keep in Mind If You'd Be Smartly Dressed

The girl who has a slim, lovely neck can wear a necklace such as this two-strand white enamel sprayed with rhinestones.

By HELEN FOLLETT

THE woman who never catches up with the style parade is the one who has fixed ideas. She will stick to them if it kills her. She has a notion that she can wear certain colors and never experiments with others. Her decision may have been all wrong at the start. If she fancies that she must have a hat with a brim, no sales-girl is smart enough to sell her a flat without one. So she is with her hairdo. There it is, the same old coiffure year after year.

Ever-Changing Fashions

Fashions in clothes, millinery, footwear and coiffures are ever-changing, and for that let us be thankful. We have to buy clothes; we might as well prowl through the shops until we find styles that are both chic and becoming. There is no virtue in ugliness or dowdiness. A smart woman won't wear with either of those qualities. She makes the most of her good points, camouflages those that aren't so good, and feels that she is doing her duty by herself.

The Proper Jewels

If her hands are large, she wears few rings and no bracelets. If her neck is short and plump, she chooses pearls instead of some heavy necklace that calls attention to the pillar that holds up her head. If the neck is wrinkled, the collar hides as much of it as can be hidden comfortably.

If ears are large, they are not loaded down with heavy earrings, but carry button ones. Pendants are more suitable for evening than daytime wear but should never be worn by a woman with a long, thin face. They just make her face look longer and thinner.

Conservative dressing is now the style. Simplicity is smarter than fluff and ruffles. Keep this in mind!

Bill to Limit School

estate in the district.

Added in the Senate was an amendment to limit other subsidized construction, which must be approved by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, to not more than $25,000,000.

Objections to the change have been voiced by the sponsors, Reps. Norman Wood (R), Lancaster, and Stuart Helm (R), Armstrong.

Opponents of the measure point out that construction has now reached within $20,000,000 of the proposed ceiling* and a bill has been approved limiting borrowing capacity of the State Public School Building Authority to $125,000,000, or only $35,000,000 more than projects already under contract.

Sen. George Leader (D), York, said the bill makes no provision for meeting emergency conditions or other immediate needs — destruction of facilities by fire or rapid expansion in growing areas such as Bucks county.

He said school boards would be forced to spend available funds for "small units, lean-tos or other temporary structures."

The first medical school in America was founded at Philadelphia, May 3, 1765.

Edward G. Biester because he came to Quarter Sessions Court here wearing a T-shirt.

Shurr, who was sentenced to pay a $200 fine and the costs of prosecution, was asked by Judge Biester whether he didn't have a coat and whether he didn't know he was coming to court to plead guilty.

"I was notified while on the job at the Fairless Works," said Shurr, the father of two small children, aged three and five.

"You have a coat, don't you?" Judge Biester asked. "Yes, but I didn't think it was necessary to wear it."

"Men attending court are getting more and more careless," said the Court. "I am all in sympathy with casual, or informal dress during the summer but you knew that you had to appear in court today to answer a criminal charge and you are hardly appropriately dressed without a coat."

Shurr, who said he has been living in Bucks county less than two years, apologized for his appearance. He was arrested July 11, in Fallsington, after his car struck an automobile driven by Hilda C. Nolf. The woman's car was damaged to the extent of $50.

Falls Township Patrolman William J. McCue arrested the defendant at 4:50 in the morning. A Levittown doctor pronounced Shurr unfit to drive a car.

Shurr declined to give the number of drinks he had. "I am not an habitual drinker," he testified.

he will be issued a summons. Shook said, charging him with reckless driving.

Two accidents were reported by the Bristol township police Thursday. The first, occurred on Route 13, and the second at the intersection of Routes 413 and 13.

Herbert Hooper, 28, of 16 Stonybrook drive, Levittown, was traveling north on Route 13 at 5 p. m. when his car collided, police said, with one going south driven by George D. Herrgott, 37, Avenue A and Pine street, Newportville.

According to police, Hooper had cuts over his eyes which required stitches and brush burns on his arms and legs. He was taken in a patrol car to Bristol General Hospital.

The Bucks County Rescue Squad which took Herrgott to Mercer Hospital, Trenton, reported he suffered fractured ribs, lacerations of the left knee, bruises of the stomach, and possible fractures of the right thigh.

Officers Harry Bowers and H. C. Shaw investigated the accident.

The second accident involved Robert Coles, 1120 Beaver street, Bristol, a parked car owned by Joseph C. Giffre, 685 Second avenue, Bristol, and Mrs. Winifred A. Roberts, Buttonwood avenue and Bristol pike, Andalusia.

Police said Coles, driving a car owned by his wife, Agnes F., was going west on Route 13, when Mrs. Roberts, traveling northeast on 13 began to make a left turn onto Route 413.

The two cars collided and also hit Giffre's, which was parked on Route 413 at the intersection. H. C. Shaw, the investigating officer, reported no one was injured.

Some Rules to Keep in Mind If You'd Be Smartly Dressed

The girl who has a slim, lovely neck can wear a necklace such as this two-strand white enamel sprayed with rhinestones.

By HELEN FOLLETT

THE woman who never catches up with the style parade is the one who has fixed ideas. She will stick to them if it kills her. She has a notion that she can wear certain colors and never experiments with others. Her decision may have been all wrong at the start. If she fancies that she must have a hat with a brim, no salesgirl is smart enough to sell her a hat without one. So she is with her hairdo. There it is, the same old coiffure year after year.

Ever-Changing Fashions

Fashions in clothes, millinery, footwear and coiffures are ever-changing, and for that let us be thankful. We have to buy clothes; we might as well prowl through the shops until we find styles that are both chic and becoming. There is no virtue in ugliness or dowdiness. A smart woman won't wear with either of those qualities. She makes the most of her good points, camouflages those that aren't so good, and feels that she is doing her duty by herself.

(Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

She carefully considers the small accessories that she wears—scarves, belts, gloves, neckwear. They must be on friendly terms with the rest of her outfit, not only in color but in character. So it is with costume jewelry that must be in good taste.

The Proper Jewels

If her hands are large, she wears few rings and no bracelets. If her neck is short and plump, she chooses pearls instead of some heavy necklace that calls attention to the pillar that holds up her head. If the neck is wrinkled, the collar hides as much of it as can be hidden comfortably.

If ears are large, they are not loaded down with heavy earrings, but carry button ones. Pendants are more suitable for evening than daytime wear but should never be worn by a woman with a long, thin face. They just make her face look longer and thinner. Conservative dressing is now the style. Simplicity is smarter than fluff and ruffles. Keep this in mind!

IN THE LOCAL FIELD

DiTanna's HR Halts Franklin's 12-Game Streak For 5th Warders

A tremendous drive to centerfield for a home run with one on base by Vince DiTanna gave Fifth Ward Sporting Club a 3-1 win over the league-leading Franklin A. C. team last evening on Memorial field.

The defeat ended a 12-game winning streak by Chick Stansky, who had not been beaten on the mound since May 5. Stansky was hooked up in a twirling duel with Stan Koreya, Fifth Ward hill ace.

Stansky pitched well enough to win an ordinary game but with Koreya matching him pitch for pitch, it was just the one pitch to DiTanna that spoiled the evening's performance of the Franklin star.

After DiTanna's homer, Stansky did not allow a hit. Fifth Ward having three for the evening, Koreya gave up four hits. He fanned six.

Fifth Ward counted its first run in the second. Don Bourne walked. He was out on an attempted steal of second but Toby Oriola dropped the ball, the runner being declared safe. Joe Embiscuso and Smithers Cordisco were out but Mike DeLisa hit to Lou Pizzullo who kicked the ball around to allow Bourne to cross the plate.

In the third, John Cordisco doubled to right and continued to dribble on Pizzullo's error. DiTanna then followed with his home run to end the Fifth Ward scoring and also hitting for Stansky only allowed three batters to reach base on walks.

The Franklin tally was produced in the seventh. Bob Lattanzi struck out but Danny Pieo let the third strike get away from him and Lattanzi reached base. Barney Ludwig walked. Capella struck out. Dave Ludwig tossed out Cialella. Lattanzi scoring on the play. Stansky flied out to DeLisa.

Lattanzi had two hits for the losers with Bert Barbetta and Tony Palumbo getting the other hits. DiTanna also had a single to his credit.

'Iron Mike' Magill To Ride in Four Langhorne Events

LANGHORNE, July 25 — "Iron Mike" Magill, perhaps one of the most versatile auto pilots in the nation, will attempt what no other driver has even considered when the Third Annual Auto Racing Fair is presented around the world famous Langhorne Speedway next Sunday afternoon. The Haddonfield, N. J., ace of the speedways will ride in all four of the feature events — never has a driver completed in four different events, over the same course and within the limited period of a single afternoon.

This type of competition is not a novelty to Magill for that is how he came by the handle "Iron Mike". Originally, a champion in the sprint car division, the lad from the Garden State has branched out into midgeut auto racing — a second in last season's 50-mile during the Fair program and still it was only his second run in a midgeut.

He is among the front runners in the stocks, one only need consult the standings at the leading tracks around the nation to see his record. And in the foreign-vs-American stocks he has experienced this type of action, too. Magill appears to be the only pilot that has the stamina, experience and mounts to rate as a threat in all four trophy events.

The 50-mile Regional Championship stock car event, sanctioned by NASCAR, has attracted a keen field. In addition to Magill, this field includes Bobby Courtwright, Lou Johnson, Dave Terrell, "Rot-and-Ronnie" Kohler, Bill Errico and Charley Miller. The sprint cars will also be competing in a URC championship event and in this division Magill is a former champion and still a contender for 1953 laurels. Charley Miller, Mike San Felice, Jerry Russo and Bud Olsen are among the threats in this race.

The 50-mile midgeut auto championship appears to be attracting a great field for in addition to Miller and Magill there will be Bill Henry, Art Gottier, Joe Belsito and other veteran manipulators.

The American-vs-foreign stocks will be a trophy race and like the other races will be staged over the historic Bucks County mile course.

conclusion by Levitt that his $3,000,000 investment in Middletown twp. would be lost under the ordinance.

"Scandalous" In reply to an allegation by the builder that the ordinance is "intended solely to discourage and prevent Levitt's development, the supervisors said the ordinance applies to every developer, and that the statement is "scandalous".

Until argument court is resumed in October, no action is expected in this litigation, or in another suit in which Levitt is challenging Middletown twp. Municipal Authority's exclusive franchise for town-ship sewers. Monroe said he has also answered for the supervisors in this suit.

Adopted April 11, 1953, the sewer ordinance was appealed by Levitt who maintained it was not properly advertised, and a notice of hearing was not given. Levitt further stated that there was no public notice of the hearing at which the ordinance was passed.

Ordinance Was Advertised In their objections, the supervisors said the ordinance and hearing were advertised, and that Levitt fails to say whether or not a representative of the building firm attended the hearing.

"As a matter of fact," Monroe said yesterday, Levitt's representatives were at the hearing. Monroe said Harry Kalish, of Levitt's law firm, and other representatives of the builder attended. The supervisors said in their objections that Levitt's bill of equity does not include the entire record of the ordinance.

Before suing, Levitt had urged that Lower Bucks County Joint Municipal Authority provide sewer and water service in the proposed Levittown Home in Middletown twp.

DiTanna's HR Halts Franklin's 12-Game Streak For 5th Warders

A tremendous drive to centerfield for a home run with one on base by Vince DiTanna gave Fifth Ward Sporting Club a 3-1 win over the league-leading Franklin A. C. team last evening on Memorial field.

The defeat ended a 12-game winning streak by Chick Stansky, who had not been beaten on the mound since May 5. Stansky was hooked up in a twirling duel with Stan Koreyva, Fifth Ward hill ace.

Stansky pitched well enough to win an ordinary game but with Koreyva matching him pitch for pitch, it was just the one pitch to DiTanna that spoiled the evening's performance of the Franklin star.

After DiTanna's homer, Stansky did not allow a hit. Fifth Ward having three for the evening. Koreyva gave up four hits. He fanned six.

Fifth Ward counted its first run in the second. Don Bourne walked. He was out on an attempted steal of second but Toby Oriola dropped the ball, the runner being declared safe. Joe Embiscuso and Smithers Cordisco were out but Mike DeLisa hit to Lou Pizzullo who kicked the ball around to allow Bourne to cross the plate.

In the third, John Cordisco doubled to right and continued to third on Pizzullo's error. DiTanna then followed with his home run to end the Fifth Ward scoring and also hitting for Stansky only allowed three batters to reach base on walks.

The Franklin hit was produced in the seventh. Bob Lattanzi struck out but Danny Pieo led the third strike get away from him and Lattanzi reached base. Barney Ludwig walked. Capella struck out. Dave Ludwig tossed out. Lattanzi scoring on the play. Stansky fled out to DeLisa.

Lattanzi had two hits for the losers with Bert Barbetta and Tony Palumbo getting the other hits. DiTanna also had a single to his credit.

★ DUTCH KITCHEN ★

A NUMBER OF THINGS contribute to the charming exterior design of Plan K-331. First, there's the red and white pattern of brick and siding, then the brick window boxes and a multi-paned bay window.

THIS IS A DUTCH KITCHEN, a streamlined version of those used by those first settlers in New Amsterdam. It features a fireplace, designed for barbecues, and an adjoining pantry with its pass-thru.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

ARCHITECTS have stolen a page from history books. Some of their new homes are featuring big Dutch kitchens, the type that was popular back in the days when New Amsterdam occupied the site currently known as New York City.

Today's house, Plan K-331, has just such a kitchen. It's a spacious room equipped with modern appliances that weren't even dreamed of by those first Dutch settlers. These include a huge freezer, a large refrigerator and a streamlined stove with storage cabinets on either side of it. Work counters and cabinets line one entire wall.

Parties in the Kitchen

There's an old saying that most parties wind up in the kitchen. This is one kitchen where parties will start. A large barbecue fireplace should mean many good times for the family that likes to entertain.

Adjoining the kitchen, a pantry has enough shelf space to house the biggest supply of groceries. A pass-thru makes it possible to slide groceries from the pantry into the cabinets over the kitchen freezer.

"Mud" Closet

A door from the kitchen opens on a terrace and covered porch that can be used for dining out in good weather, with a "mud" closet just inside the door for rainy-day gear and work clothes.

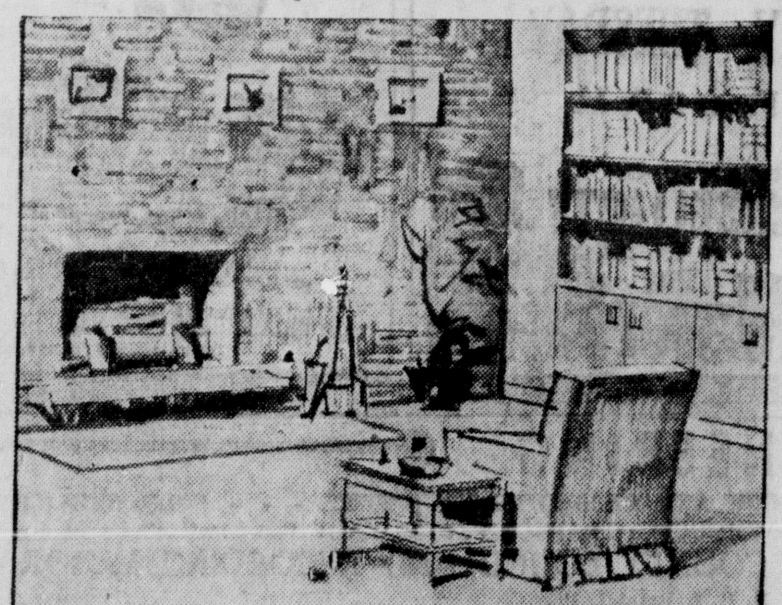

Plans provide a small dining room that adjoins the living room. This room has a fireplace.

Pre-Built House By Modular Firm Seen Innovation

KANSAS CITY, Kas. — (INS) — Modular construction is the term used by a Kansas City firm to describe its innovation in home building.

Wadsworth, Inc., says its pre-built method of house construction is the first departure of its kind in the building industry since introduction of mill-framed windows and doors, a generation ago.

The company manufactures 60 per cent completed dwellings for builders out of modular materials — an architect's term meaning a standard size section.

Roof Feature

The roughed-in dwellings include walls, window sections, doors, roof trusses, exterior siding and shingles. The wall sections are insulated and parts of the pieces are prime-coated with paint.

Any home plan can be reduced by Wadsworth architects to modular sections — four feet wide — and produced that way in the factory, thus affording custom-built homes.

A feature most attractive to owners is the truss-type roof which takes all the weight off inside partitions, thus helping eliminate cracks and sagging. It also permits flexibility in re-arranging rooms at a minimum expense.

About 40 homes are produced each week by the firm. They are transported to the purchasers on flat-bed trailer trucks, 92 primary separate parts for each house. Average cost to the builder is $5,000.

Builders claim that using the Wadsworth system they can erect more houses, deliver them sooner and eliminate much of the materials waste that eats into profits.

Following is the cost breakdown exclusive of lot on a house selling for $11,500, built by Jim Bradfield of Emporia, Kas., at Olpe, Kas.

|                             |        |
|-----------------------------|--------|
| Excavation and foundation   | $ 400 |
| Wadsworth modular materials | 4,800  |
| Plumbing                    | 800    |
| Rheem forced air furnace    | 484    |
| Wiring and fixtures         | 220    |
| Brick veneer                | 200    |
| Interior                    | 585    |
| Labor                       | 1,300  |
| Drives, guttering           | 180    |

Sales Advantages

Bradfield, who later erected similar homes in Emporia, points out the sales advantages which speedier construction gave over his competitors. He said:

"The loan structure under which most houses are built is set up to delay the first payment by the buyer until six months from the time the house is begun. By using modular methods, which cut down the time of construction, I'm able to offer buyers the equivalent of three months rent. That's an important advantage in view of high costs of moving and all the expenses that go with a new house."

The builder is looking toward the farm market now. He feels that modular materials give him a chance to perform a real service for the farmer, "because materials made up in this way put the cost of an efficient, high quality home within the reach of every farmer."

The homes are being erected within a 600-mile radius of Kansas City, but shipments have been made as far away as Denver, Boston, Detroit and Dallas.

Building Booms In Eastern Pa.; Shortages Acute

PHILADELPHIA — (INS)—The Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia reported today that manufacturing and building activity is high in the eastern two-thirds of Pennsylvania.

On the basis of grass-root reports from various sections of Delaware, Southern New Jersey and the eastern two-thirds of Pennsylvania, the bank also noted agriculture displays elements of both strength and weakness, but that the situation in coal mining shows little improvement.

In manufacturing, activity continues at or near capacity in nearly all lines, the bank said. Pressure on labor markets is growing and shortages already have appeared in places like Lancaster, Williamsport, and York. Developers throughout the Delaware Valley point up the increasing importance of iron and steel in the diversified industrial pattern of the third district economy.

The report added there is moderate expansion in areas where textiles are important. Full fashioned hosiery products in Reading, for example, wish for still greater activity but are pleased with the extent of improvement shown thus far.

The Nation was plunged into mourning by death of Abraham Lincoln, Apr. 15, 1865.

COOL IDEAS

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

HOT! Hotter! Hottest! These three words take an active part in any self-respecting summer vocabulary. To use any one of them, all you need do is make a pertinent comment on the weather.

It's quite true, as Mark Twain said, that people have been talking about the weather for years. But now, Mr. T. would be gratified to know, they're finally doing something about it.

Sweltering Summer

Instead of sweltering through the summer, manufacturers have come up with some cool ideas for beating the heat.

First of all, there are air conditioners that take the mercury down degrees. One of the new room models circulates dehumidified cool air quietly. Heretofore such units have sounded remotely like a jet plane warming up for the take-off.

For the Bookcase

This new model is also a hideaway design. If you place it in a window, the grille projects no farther than the drapery line. Or, if you like, you can pop it into a bookcase, cabinet or storage wall. In either of these cases, however, there must be a duct that will reach outside air. For this reason, the installation should be made along an outside wall, where the duct will be as wide as the back of the unit.

Room air conditioning units can be had for under $250.

Those with lesser budgets may find electric fans are their warm weather solution. These come in a variety of styles. Particularly good if there are small children in the home, is a fan that's concealed behind a grille so closely spaced that tiny fingers can't squeeze in and catch the blades.

Two-Speed Switch

This fan is portable and can be used on a table for quick room cooling, on the floor as an air circulator, or in a window where it will bring in fresh air, take out stuffy air. It has a two-speed switch and can be adjusted for vertical or horizontal air flow. This model retails for about $35; other styles are less expensive.

AIR-CONDITIONING UNITS are getting more decorative. This smart, quietly-operating model fits attractively into a bookshelf.

Convertible screen-storm windows made of aluminum are another cool idea. The screens and windows can be adjusted to any height for breezy ventilation. Permanently attached, the units don't rust or corrode and are removable for cleaning.

Heat-resistant draperies are a prize-winning design in the cool-off category. These particular drapes received one of the 1953 Trail Blazer Awards, given by the Home Fashions League.

Heat Reducing

On the room side, the draperies have a colorful print on chintz. They are lined with aluminum backing that does year round duty. In winter, they keep cold out; in summer, by reflecting back the sun, they reduce interior daytime heat.

This is just a small portion of proof that people are doing something about the heat and humidity. We have to agree with Mr. Twain, they're still talking about it. And, comes a completely air-conditioned age, it will undoubtedly remain a topic of intense conversation—after all, it may cool off indoors but it will still be hot outside.

Seek Lessening Of U. S. Influence On Construction

By William Kerwin
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 25—(INS)—Industry leaders soon will propose a major revamping of the government's Central Housing Agency designed to lessen federal influence in the home building field.

Plans for the reorganization are being drafted for housing chief Albert M. Cole who is conducting a two-month study to help President Eisenhower determine the government's precise role in housing.

A big question facing Cole, a Kansas Republican who took office just a few months ago, is what to do with his Housing and Home Finance Agency which was established in 1949 despite bitter industry opposition.

Although criticism of HHFA is still heard, the industry has since changed its mind and now believes that an agency is needed in government to represent it in White House deliberations.

But many builders believe steps should be taken to remove operating functions such as slum clearance, and Alaskan, college and defense housing, from the HHFA and transfer them into another agency.

"The loan structure under which most houses are built is set up to delay the first payment by the buyer until six months from the time the house is begun. By using modular methods, which cut down the time of construction, I'm able to offer buyers the equivalent of three months rent. That's an important advantage in view of high costs of moving and all the expenses that go with a new house."

The builder is looking toward the farm market now. He feels that modular materials give him a chance to perform a real service for the farmer, "because materials made up in this way put the cost of an efficient, high quality home within the reach of every farmer."

The homes are being erected within a 600-mile radius of Kansas City, but shipments have been made as far away as Denver, Boston, Detroit and Dallas.

Building Booms In Eastern Pa.; Shortages Acute

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — The Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia reported today that manufacturing and building activity is high in the eastern two-thirds of Pennsylvania.

On the basis of grass-root reports from various sections of Delaware, Southern New Jersey and the eastern two-thirds of Pennsylvania, the bank also noted agriculture displays elements of both strength and weakness, but that the situation in coal mining shows little improvement.

In manufacturing, activity continues at or near capacity in nearly all lines, the bank said. Pressure on labor markets is growing and shortages already have appeared in places like Lancaster, Williamsport, and York. Developers throughout the Delaware Valley point up the increasing importance of iron and steel in the diversified industrial pattern of the third district economy.

The report added there is moderate expansion in areas where textiles are important. Full fashioned hosiery products in Reading, for example, wish for still greater activity but are pleased with the extent of improvement shown thus far.

The Nation was plunged into mourning by death of Abraham Lincoln, Apr. 15, 1865.

COOL IDEAS

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

HOT! Hotter! Hottest! These three words take an active part in any self-respecting summer vocabulary. To use any one of them, all you need do is make a pertinent comment on the weather.

It's quite true, as Mark Twain said, that people have been talking about the weather for years. But now, Mr. T. would be gratified to know, they're finally doing something about it.

Sweating Summer

Instead of sweating through the summer, manufacturers have come up with some cool ideas for beating the heat.

First of all, there are air conditioners that take the mercury down degrees. One of the new room models circulates dehumidified cool air quietly. Heretofore such units have sounded remotely like a jet plane warming up for the take-off.

For the Bookcase

This new model is also a hideaway design. If you place it in a window, the grille projects no farther than the drapery line. Or, if you like, you can pop it into a bookcase, cabinet or storage wall. In either of these cases, however, there must be a duct that will reach outside air. For this reason, the installation should be made along an outside wall, where the duct will be as wide as the back of the unit.

Room air conditioning units can be had for under $250.

Those with lesser budgets may find electric fans are their warm weather solution. These come in a variety of styles. Particularly good if there are small children in the home, is a fan that's concealed behind a grille so closely spaced that tiny fingers can't squeeze in and catch the blades.

Two-Speed Switch

This fan is portable and can be used on a table for quick room cooling, on the floor as an air circulator, or in a window where it will bring in fresh air, take out stuffy air. It has a two-speed switch and can be adjusted for vertical or horizontal air flow. This model retails for about $35; other styles are less expensive.

AIR-CONDITIONING UNITS are getting more decorative. This smart, quietly-operating model fits attractively into a bookshelf.

Convertible screen-storm windows made of aluminum are another cool idea. The screens and windows can be adjusted to any height for breezy ventilation. Permanently attached, the units don't rust or corrode and are removable for cleaning.

Heat-resistant draperies are a prize-winning design in the cool-off category. These particular drapes received one of the 1953 Trail Blazer Awards, given by the Home Fashions League.

Heat Reducing

On the room side, the draperies have a colorful print on chintz. They are lined with aluminum backing that does year round duty. In winter, they keep cold out; in summer, by reflecting back the sun, they reduce interior daytime heat.

This is just a small portion of proof that people are doing something about the heat and humidity. We have to agree with Mr. Twain, they're still talking about it. And, comes a completely air-conditioned age, it will undoubtedly remain a topic of intense conversation—after all, it may cool off indoors but it will still be hot outside.

Seek Lessening Of U. S. Influence On Construction

By William Kerwin
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 25 — (INS) — Industry leaders soon will propose a major revamping of the government's Central Housing Agency designed to lessen federal influence in the home building field.

Plans for the reorganization are being drafted for housing chief Albert M. Cole who is conducting a two-month study to help President Eisenhower determine the government's precise role in housing.

A big question facing Cole, a Kansas Republican who took office just a few months ago, is what to do with his Housing and Home Finance Agency which was established in 1949 despite bitter industry opposition.

Although criticism of HHFA is still heard, the industry has since changed its mind and now believes that an agency is needed in government to represent it in White House deliberations.

But many builders believe steps should be taken to remove operating functions such as slum clearance, and Alaskan, college and defense housing, from the HHFA and transfer them into another agency.

LOOKING FOR A BREEZE? You'll find one in front of an electric fan. The two-speed design shown is portable and has a safety grille.

Killed in Fire

BEHMAN, N. J.—An Army Major and his eight-year-old daughter were killed today when fire broke out in a kitchen and spread through a large frame house. Major Michael Czajkowski, 35, of Drexel Hill Pa., and his daughter, Diane, died as flames swept his mother-in-law's home in Behman, Czajkowski's wife was overcome by smoke. Another daughter and his mother-in-law's family escaped uninjured. Firemen estimated damage at $70,000.

'Still Cheap'

PARIS—Reports from the United States that this year's Paris fashion prices have climbed sky high—to the extent that some American buyers may boycott the fall market—brought vehement denials today from the French Haute Couture Syndicate. Buyers can purchase dresses with famous labels for as little as $285 they said. "In addition, buyers can see some 2,000 models in the top houses which, indeed, is a very instructive exhibition," the Syndicate said.

Protest Food

BERLIN—A high-ranking East German source said today that Soviet occupation authorities will send a strongly worded note to American officials protesting recent donations of food to hungry East Berlin residents. The East German source said the Soviet note will charge that the food donations are "a violation of the occupation powers agreements."

Tax Uncertain

WASHINGTON—A bill repealing the 20 per cent tax on movie tickets faces an uncertain fate today at the White House. The Senate passed the bill Thursday night by voice vote without discussion.

New Rhee Note

SEOUL—President Syngman Rhee received a new note from Secretary of State Dulles today in which the United States offered no additional inducement for South Korea's obedience to the imminent armistice. The letter was delivered after Rhee held an extraordinary meeting with his cabinet to weigh South Korea's capacity to continue the war against the Communists. The cabinet adjourned without deciding the issue.

Czechs Escape

MUNICH—Radio Free Europe announced today that eight Czechs, including two children, escaped from Communist rule today in a home-made armored car which smashed through border obstructions to West Germany. They told border police that today's escape culminated three years of planning.

Gets Operation

NEW ORLEANS—Movie Actor Gary Cooper will undergo an operation in Paris soon. Dr. Alton Ochsner, noted New Orleans surgeon, disclosed that he will fly to Paris within two weeks to perform the operation. Ochsner refused to reveal the nature of the operation but said it was not serious. The same surgeon performed a hernia operation on the actor in 1952.

Plan Arms Limit

WASHINGTON—The Senate is expected next week to adopt a resolution declaring that the U. S. will continue to seek international agreements on the limitation of armaments. The resolution, already approved by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is based on President Eisenhower's plea in an address last April for united inspection of armaments.

No Raise Wanted

WASHINGTON—Two GOP Congressmen today blasted a "backdoor" Senate proposal to raise Congressional salary and promised a thorough airing of the bill. They said they would make sure the House deliberates the measure. The Senate passed the bill Thursday night by voice vote without discussion.

HULMEVILLE

Gifts were showered on Miss Margaret Phillips Tuesday evening, when a social affair was arranged by her sister-in-law, Mrs. John Phillips, at the latter's home. Those in attendance were: Mrs. George Wilson, Mrs. Guy Jones, Mrs. M. THE OLD VS. THE NEW - A CHALLENGE TO COOPERATION AS EXPANDING AREA FACES FUTURE

Historic Sites Sprout New Mills in Lower Bucks County

Nowhere in the world do the old and the new come in closer contact than in lower Bucks County.

Sensational new industrial procedures are being tried on a gigantic scale in an area filled with reminders of the earliest days of another great experience — free government as envisioned by William Penn.

The site of the United States Steel plant, which is the most advance such factory on earth, is in the historic "Great Bend" of the Delaware River. This favored section so pleased William Penn that he is said to have considered it at one time as the best location for the city of Philadelphia.

It was to this "Great Bend" that William Penn directed his planning for the administration of his American province in 1681. Largely by letters, he directed the building of a handsome, typically English manor house where he proposed to spend most of his time while directing his diverse affairs in Pennsylvania.

Fallen into ruins generations ago, Penn's Manor has been reconstructed by the State and shows vividly the kind of life to which the founder was accustomed. Situated though it was in the heart of wild country inhabited by Indians, this proposed seat of government — as many a commentator has noted — had no barricades or other defenses. Penn believed what many today seem to doubt, that it is possible for races and individuals to live together in good faith, peace and harmony. And he did a fairly good job of proving his point!

As Penn did, Ben Fairless and other leaders of U. S. Steel came to the "Great Bend" three years ago for a sensational program, the end result of which may be to reorganize steel production throughout the world. In their train came many other remarkable innovations, including mass construction of housing on a scale unknown before.

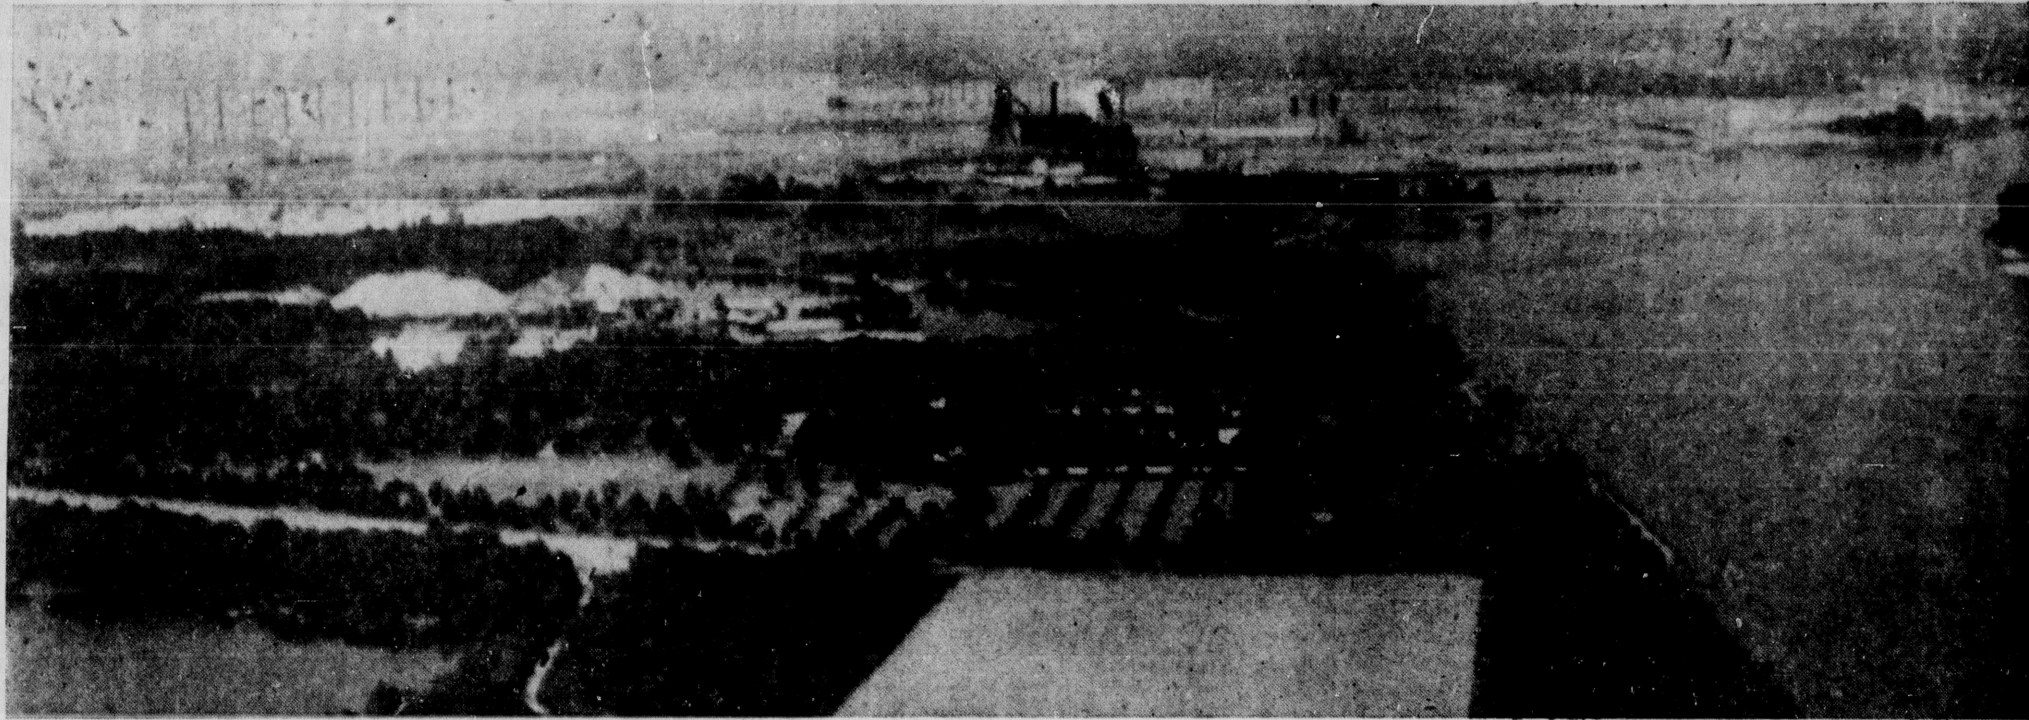

These and associated events have affected the lives of all residents of Bucks County. Many families have been uprooted either by industrial advancement or by the economic pressure of $2000-an-acre-plus prices for their farms.

But many more Bucks Countians are living where they always have, doing their best to make peace with new trends and new conditions.

Likewise the distinguished record of Bucks County,

Two Centuries and a Half Meet in The "GREAT BEND"

In the photograph above, in the foreground, can be seen the grounds and part of the building of reconstructed Pennsbury, a replica of the manor house which William Penn ordered built as his Bucks County seat of government more than 250 years ago. Hovering over this historic shrine are the gigantic new structures of the United States Steel Company, while in the middle ground is visible part of the loading station of Warner Sand and Gravel Company. As everywhere in lower Bucks County, the very old and very new rub elbows, and try to reconcile their exceedingly great differences.

Something is in the making in this busy region which has not yet taken final pattern. Here in Bucks County, perhaps more than anywhere else, is being forged the America of tomorrow. Like the new Bucks County this coming America will draw partly upon the valiant and inspired past as well as upon the active an inventive present.

The advance for civilization is a sifting process. To progress, mankind must save whatever is worthwhile of the Old while continuing to be receptive to what is valuable of the New.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

I shall be satisfied when I awake in thy likeness.—Ps. 17:15.
It staggers the imagination when we contemplate the destiny of the human soul. We have indeed a noble destiny. We should walk worthy of our great inheritance as sons of God.

ATOMIC AGE CAVES

They are called bomb shelters—and the government says everyone who lives within 10 miles of the down town section of a major city in a critical target area should construct one — but they are reminiscent of life in the period of the cave man. Perhaps a future history of mankind will be entitled, "From Cave to Cave."

There are 67 critical target cities, but the government has not released a list of them, apparently in the naive hope the Muscovites will not know about these cities unless they read a list of names in American newspapers. Local civil defense officials have been informed whether their communities are considered to be in critical danger areas.

But if the populace is slightly confused as to whether a bomb shelter in the back yard is indicated, such information can be obtained, presumably, from the 1953 successor to the air raid warden of 1943. If the worst fears are confirmed, for 30 cents the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., will send a booklet, entitled "Home Shelters for Family Protection in an Atomic Attack."

This fascinating booklet, which is an interesting commentary on evolution of modern civilization, but which would become a best seller overnight in case of all out war, suggests that beyond the 10-mile radius from a probable target, "light" shelter can be obtained in basements, windowless halls, closets or under stairways.

The 86-page manual is based on more than theory. Incorporated in it are results of tests of various shelters made at the Yucca Flat, Nev., atomic proving ground.

Don't put off until tomorrow what you can do today. There may be a law against it by that time.

Shull Addresses Pharmacy Sessions

Norman Haines Shull, chairman of the Public and Professional Relations Committee of the Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Association, has just returned from a three-day convention at the Ambassador Hotel, Atlantic City.

Shull addressed the more than 300 pharmacists in attendance. A report was given on the Public and Professional Relations Committee work and the things it has done to improve it.

Your Birthday by STELLA

SATURDAY, JULY 25 — Born today, you have many talents, but But you are definitely a creature of moods and only do your best work when all is well with your own, personal world! In other words, you have the ability to express your self dramatically in literature, as well. But all is well with your own, personal world! In other words, your emotional nature is strong and unless it is happily balanced in marriage, you are inclined to become a victim of depressions which you are not always able to comprehend or dissolve at will.

You have a quick temper and it must be kept under control. You have a tremendous amount of personal magnetism and are popular wherever you go. You have a talent for mixing socially and often make so many friends that you have little time for yourself. This is all well and good, if you are not embarked upon a career which calls for a certain amount of solitude and concentration.

Your intuitions are keen — at times positively psychic. You "feel" things and you have hunches which, if you follow, can prove very fortunate and you can be sure that it will be exactly the right decision! Your dreams are vivid and may even be symbolic. You might find it enlightening to have them interpreted for you. You might be able to better understand yourself. And if that happens—and you act accordingly—others may be able to better understand you! You have a rather complicated personality—one which often needs explaining.

To find what the stars have in store for tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Sunday, July 26

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—You may need spiritual uplift as well as physical relaxation just now. Church attendance can give you the former.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—Tensions from the past week may be dissipated now, if you find balance and emotional control.

SUNDAY, JULY 26 — Born today, literature is your natural field of expression. You have a definite gift for words and the ability to interpret dramatically the actions, motivations and even the thoughts of others. If you develop this gift, you can become one of the most outstanding personalities of your own generation. Your frame is very likely to long outlive you. You have a keen, but often biting, sense of humor and can depict the foibles of others with great force.

In addition, you have the gift of brilliant conversation and, when you want to, can be the most charming of hosts. But when you do not feel that the company is appreciative of your particular gifts, you can shut up like a clam and never utter a word! Your friends call this temperament. Your critics call it just plain rudeness!

Although you are critical of others and say exactly what you think, you care very little about what people say of you — just as long as they say something! You are your own best press agent, and know how to promote yourself and your ideas excellently. You are fond of change and may take a long time to settle down in one place — if you ever do. If you wed at all, it should be in early youth and to someone who can grow with you. Otherwise you may become too much of an individualist to ever be able to be happy with another sharing your life. Greatness can be yours, but you may have to hunt for lasting happiness.

To find what the stars have in store for tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Monday, July 27

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — Don't promise more than you can deliver. Better to promise less than you hope for — and deliver more!

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—Routine will prove more beneficial today than any attempt to initiate anything new, no matter how spectacular.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—Make full use of all that bright, new energy. You'll need it! It's going to be a very busy day.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — You'll have plenty to call you back from your holiday week end. There's a lot of work to be done.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — If you work hard today, you can make important progress toward LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—Be careful if you are at the beach this week-end. Sun-burn, if you're not careful, can be serious!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—City folks need to go gracefully on that week-end exercise. Don't overstrain those untrained muscles.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — Plan to get complete rest and relaxation. Making your plans for fun too complicated can be wearing!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—Make this a revitalizing day. The coming week may be a strenuous one. Make preparations for it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Nice, if you do have a car. But don't deprive yourself of a pleasant week-end just because of trains!

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20)—Attendance at the church of your choice today can bring you the real spiritual uplift you need.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 20)—What you should have is some good, fresh air. You can build up your energy potential by getting out into the open.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21)—Get an early start, if you are a long way from home. You can avoid the rush that way.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Avoid getting into a traffic crush or you can lose all the good benefits from a relaxing week-end.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—Get your full quota of fresh air and sunshine when you can. It can improve your health a great deal.

some very important objective.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—An important week for you. A great deal needs to be accomplished and you should be rested enough to tackle it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Time is of great importance just now. Any task should be efficiently finished on time.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20) — A new idea, if made practical and put into production, could be the turning point in your career.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 20)—Don't let those with whom you work misunderstand your motives. Be frank and outspoken in all you say.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21)—This final week can be made to count for something very important in your life, if you let it.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Routine matters for you! They will bring better results than too much experimentation, just now.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) — Cheerfully give encouragement to someone who may be depressed. Be a good friend.

Raps Dual 'Soaking'

We Tullytowners are being soaked two ways by Levittown, it appears to me, and we should do something about it. Not only are we likely to be "soaked" with higher taxes to provide police, schools, and municipal services for Mr. Levitt's new town, but his storm drainage floods more of Tullytown each time it rains. If this keeps up, we may get washed into the Delaware River!

While I realize that Levitt's large building program is helping the growth of Lower Bucks County, what is it doing to Tullytown? Mr. Levitt is building with the speed of an express train, but we mustn't let him run over us.

Helping a Boy Who Steals

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

SUPPOSE you had a son fifteen years old, two married sons and a daughter in college. Suppose this youngest son had been taking money from the cash register of your store and sharing it with his friends.

Of such a boy, the mother writes:

"What I am about to tell you started two years ago. We bought a grocery store and, naturally, his father thought it wise to have the boy help him. That's when the trouble started.

Lied Until Caught

"He began having lots of friends and started taking money from the register. At first we thought the register didn't work right because money was missing every day. But he lied to us until we caught him.

"We took him to see the clergyman, which helped for a while. Then he started again. We increased his allowance, thinking that would help. Then we found out he gave a key to the store to one of his friends. When we were at church on Sundays the boy would enter the store, take some money and share it with our son.

"We punished him, keeping him at home for a week. He sold something in the store and put the money in his shoe. We have explained to him what would become of him if he kept on. I asked him what made him do these things and he said he didn't know. His marks used to be good at school, now they are poor. He thinks if he has good marks he will be called a sissy.

Has Improved Somewhat

"Do you think we should sell the store because of the great temptation? Should we see a psychiatrist? We have considered sending him away to school, but don't know where. We have made him give up his friends and he has not been so bad since.

"He is obedient to us in all other ways. He comes in at nine o'clock when he goes out. There is some good in him."

My reply in part: Of course there is a lot of good in that lad. I doubt whether selling the store or sending him away to school would solve the problem. Seeing a psychiatrist might help. But the main problem is to re-establish between him and you, his parents, a new relationship necessary for his rebuilding, regardless of all other possibilities.

I wish Dad would go on trips and participate in games with him, have dinner with him occasionally downtown and work on some good fun with him and some other boys.

If you and Dad and his brothers and sisters could make that boy feel he is a worthy, important member of the family, help him take an interest in the store and feel he has a part in it, the problem might be solved. Dad even might work out a way with him to set aside a few dollars a week to save for some special purpose the boy would designate.

Please never bring up the past. Act and look hopefully toward the future. Put no trust in trials or emotional exhortations.

If Dad is too busy to follow such a program, he could well afford to hire somebody to take his place in the store for certain periods. There is just no reasonable sacrifice either of you parents could make that would be too great to restore this boy to his rightful place in the family. A summer in camp might be helpful.

When he feels he is really loved and understood by you parents, he can no longer steal from you or anybody else.

THE OLD VS. THE NEW - A CHALLENGE TO COOPERATION AS EXPANDING AREA FACES FUTURE

Historic Sites Sprout New Mills in Lower Bucks County

Nowhere in the world do the old and the new come in closer contact than in lower Bucks County.

Sensational new industrial procedures are being tried on a gigantic scale in an area filled with reminders of the earliest days of another great experience — free government as envisioned by William Penn.

The site of the United States Steel plant, which is the most advance such factory on earth, is in the historic "Great Bend" of the Delaware River. This favored section so pleased William Penn that he is said to have considered it at one time as the best location for the city of Philadelphia.

It was to this "Great Bend" that William Penn directed his planning for the administration of his American province in 1681. Largely by letters, he directed the building of a handsome, typically English manor house where he proposed to spend most of his time while directing his diverse affairs in Pennsylvania.

Fallen into ruins generations ago, Penn's Manor has been reconstructed by the State and shows vividly the kind of life to which the founder was accustomed. Situated though it was in the heart of wild country inhabited by Indians, this proposed seat of government — as many a commentator has noted — had no barricades or other defenses. Penn believed what many today seem to doubt, that it is possible for races and individuals to live together in good faith, peace and harmony. And he did a fairly good job of proving his point!

As Penn did, Ben Fairless and other leaders of U. S. Steel came to the "Great Bend" three years ago for a sensational program, the end result of which may be to reorganize steel production throughout the world. In their train came many other remarkable innovations, including mass construction of housing on a scale unknown before.

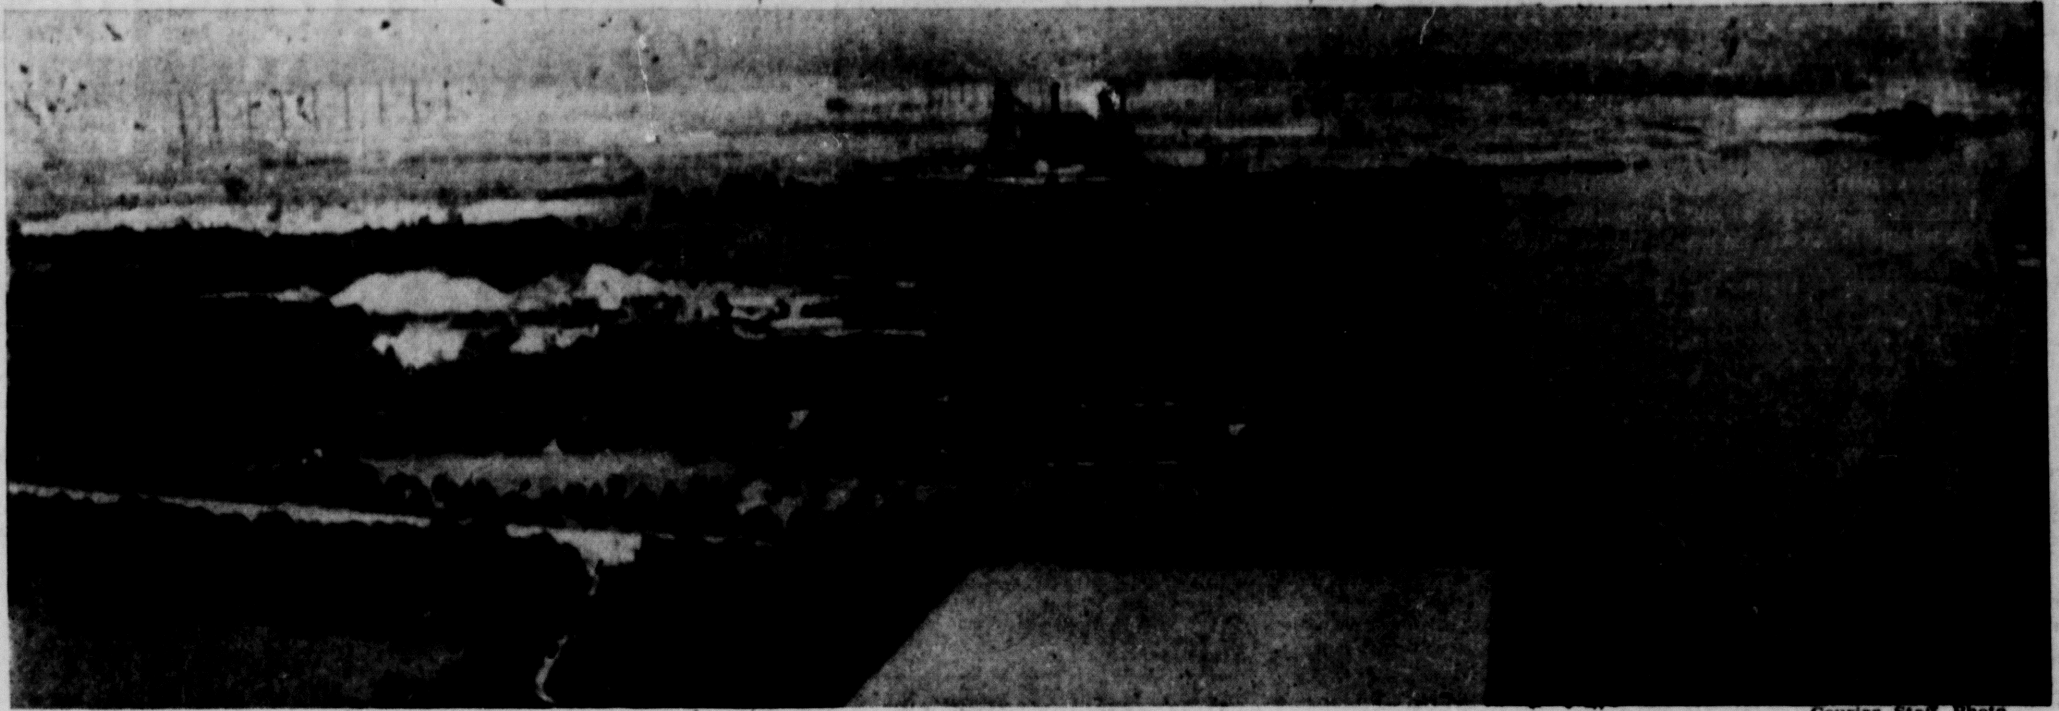

These and associated events have affected the lives of all residents of Bucks County. Many families have been uprooted either by industrial advancement or by the economic pressure of $2000-an-acre-plus prices for their farms.

But many more Bucks Countians are living where they always have, doing their best to make peace with new trends and new conditions.

Likewise the distinguished record of Bucks County,

Editor, Courier:

Raps Dual 'Soaking'

We Tullytowners are being soaked two ways by Levittown, it appears to me, and we should do something about it. Not only are we likely to be "soaked" with higher taxes to provide police, schools, and municipal services for Mr. Levitt's new town, but his storm drainage floods more of Tullytown each time it rains. If this keeps up, we may get washed into the Delaware River!

While I realize that Levitt's large building program is helping the growth of Lower Bucks County, what is it doing to Tullytown? Mr. Levitt is building with the speed of an express train, but we mustn't let him run over us.

Helping a Boy Who Steals

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

SUPPOSE you had a son fifteen years old, two married sons and a daughter in college. Suppose this youngest son had been taking money from the cash register of your store and sharing it with his friends.

Of such a boy, the mother writes: "What I am about to tell you started two years ago. We bought a grocery store and, naturally, his father thought it wise to have the boy help him. That's when the trouble started.

Lied Until Caught

"He began having lots of friends and started taking money from the register. At first we thought the register didn't work right because money was missing every day. But he lied to us until we caught him.

"We took him to see the clergyman, which helped for a while. Then he started again. We increased his allowance, thinking that would help. Then we found out he gave a key to the store to one of his friends. When we were at church on Sundays the boy would enter the store, take some money and share it with our son.

"We punished him, keeping him at home for a week. He sold something in the store and put the money in his shoe. We have explained to him what would become of him if he kept on. I asked him what made him do these things and he said he didn't know. His marks used to be good at school, now they are poor. He thinks if he has good marks he will be called a sissy.

Has Improved Somewhat

"Do you think we should sell the store because of the great temptation? Should we see a psychiatrist? We have considered sending him away to school, but don't know where. We have made him give up his friends and he has not been so bad since.

"He is obedient to us in all other ways. He comes in at nine o'clock when he goes out. There is some good in him."

My reply in part: Of course there is a lot of good in that lad. I doubt whether selling the store or sending him away to school would solve the problem. Seeing a psychiatrist might help. But the main problem is to re-establish between him and you, his parents, a new relationship necessary for his rebuilding, regardless of all other possibilities.

I wish Dad would go on trips and participate in games with him, have dinner with him occasionally downtown and work on some good fun with him and some other boys.

If you and Dad and his brothers and sisters could make that boy feel he is a worthy, important member of the family, help him take an interest in the store and feel he has a part in it, the problem might be solved. Dad even might work out a way with him to set aside a few dollars a week to save for some special purpose the boy would designate.

Please never bring up the past. Act and look hopefully toward the future. Put no trust in trials or emotional exhortations.

If Dad is too busy to follow such a program, he could well afford to hire somebody to take his place in the store for certain periods. There is just no reasonable sacrifice either of you parents could make that would be too great to restore this boy to his rightful place in the family. A summer in camp might be helpful.

When he feels he is really loved and understood by you parents, he can no longer steal from you or anybody else.
